When 2 or more runners are withdrawn SIMULTANEOUSLY the rate of deduction from and premium added to winning bets made prior to that withdrawal shall be determined by ADDING TOGETHER the rates of deduction/premium determined in respect of each such runner.

The amount payable to a bettor shall not be less than an amount which represents odds of 1.05 except:

- (a) where the bet was made at odds shorter than 1.05; or
- (b) where the amount otherwise payable is halved or otherwise reduced as a result of a dead heat.

In all cases the amount to be paid to a bettor shall be calculated to the nearest 5 cents.

Where withdrawals occur at 2 or more different times the rates of deductions from and premiums added to winning bets:

- (a) prior to the time of the first withdrawal: and
- (b) between the time of the first withdrawal and the time of the second withdrawal or between subsequent withdrawals, shall be determined as follows:

- (i) Winning bets made prior to the time of the first withdrawal:

Determine the rate of deduction from and premium added to for bets made on the FIRST withdrawn runner at the time of withdrawal disregarding the fact that there is a second withdrawal, using Table A.

Determine the rate of deduction from and premium added to bets made on the SECOND or subsequent withdrawn runner at the time of the second or subsequent withdrawal using Table A.

Add the two amounts of deductions/premiums together and apply this deduction/premium to all winning bets made prior to the first withdrawal.

- (ii) Winning bets made between the first withdrawal and the time of the second withdrawal:

Determine the rate of deduction from and premium added to for bets made on the seconds withdrawn runner at the time of withdrawal using Table A.

Apply the deduction/premium to all winning bets made between the first withdrawal and the second withdrawal.

- (iii) Winning bets made between the second withdrawal and any subsequent or further subsequent withdrawal:

Determine the rate of deduction from and premium added to for bets made on the subsequent withdrawal or any further subsequent withdrawal.

Apply this deduction/premiums to all winning bets made between the second or any subsequent withdrawal or any further subsequent withdrawal.

In all cases the amount to be paid to a bettor shall be calculated to the nearest 5 cents.
